THE LIGHT WITHIN US by Charlotte Betts

Historical Fiction | Piatkus | 400pp | March 2020

The first title in the Spindrift trilogy: an historical, multi-generational family drama set at the turn of the century

The story is set in the 1890s at Spindrift House overlooking the sea at Port Isaac, Cornwall. The trilogy follows talented painter Edith Fairchild, passionate in love and stalwart in her pursuit of artistic excellence, as she matures from an idealistic bride to the matriarch of the Spindrift community. The stories explore themes of the far-reaching effects of infidelity, together with women's rights and friendships.

In the golden afternoon of the turn of the century, Edith founds Spindrift artists' community in Cornwall with her husband Benedict and their friends Clarissa, Dora and old flame, Pascal. When Benedict abandons Edith, she cannot divorce him if she is to retain her home and children. Dora sacrifices her art to take on an unexpected challenge and Clarissa's reckless actions result in an illegitimate baby fathered by hostile neighbour Hugh Penrose. Hugh exposes weaknesses within the community that threaten to tear apart what the friends had expected to be an idyllic way of life. Pascal supports Edith as she fights successfully to ensure Spindrift's future whilst striving to fulfil her artistic promise. She grows to love Pascal for his calm good sense and is overjoyed when he tells her he loves her, too. They cannot marry but are blissfully happy together painting by the sea.

But when Hannah goes to Jinni's husband's home the next night, she finds Stan, a huge, hairy, ugly drunk who has his own problems - not least the care of a half-ruined house and garden. He claims Jinni is a very different person to the one who has persuaded Hannah to commit a terrible crime. Who is telling the truth - and who is the real victim?

* THE COVEN by Lizzie Fry

Contemporary Fiction | Sphere | 3384pp | February 2021 | Korea: KCC | Japan: TMA

Let me repeat myself, so we can be very clear. Women are not the enemy. Whilst they may use their gifts against one another and against us men and - dare I say it! - even our beloved, innocent children, we must rise above their ambitions for power and desire for petty revenge. Now, we must work to correct the balance their female excesses have put out of whack. We must protect them from themselves, just as much as we must protect ourselves. In the words of our Lord, Jesus Christ: forgive them, for they know not what they do.

Imagine a world in which witchcraft is real. In which mothers' hand down power to their daughters, power that is used harmlessly and peacefully. Then imagine that the US President is a populist demagogue who decides that all witches must be interned for their own safety, and the safety of those around them - creating a world in which to be female is one step away from being criminal... As witches across the world are rounded up, one girl begins to discover her power. It's a dangerous force and it brings her into contact with the Sentinel, a shadowy global organisation dedicated to the destruction of all witchcraft. Will Chloe and her helpers survive a breathless chase across Europe and the USA to find and save the source of all women's power before the Sentinel can destroy it?

When his popular, irritatingly confident teenage brother Trick comes out as gay to a rapturous response, Jake realises he has questions about his own repressed bisexuality, and that he can't wait any longer to find his answers. As Trick begins to struggle with navigating the murky waters of adult relationships, Jake begins a journey that will destroy his relationship with girlfriend Amelia, challenge his closest friendships, and force him to face up to the distance between him and his family - but offers new friends, fewer inhibitions, and a glimpse of the magnificent life he never thought could be his.

Contemporary Fiction | Dialogue | 320pp | October 2020

An extraordinary literary debut from a Nigerian-born author about a boy's secret intersex identity and his desire to live as a girl

My name is Otolorin. I've been called monster. Within dark valleys of flesh I defy the given - a snake curled in upon itself, two-in-one, mythical and shunned. Yet, in that magic place between worlds, in the realm where the great mother gives milk to her offspring, I become like a goddess.

An Ordinary Wonder is the powerful coming of age story of an intersex twin, Oto, who is forced to live as a boy despite their heartfelt belief that they are a girl.

This is the tale of Koli – a young man who lives in the village of Mythen Rood. This is a future Britain, but one which is barely recognisable now.

Things have been very different since environmental disaster wreaked havoc on nature, and since the Unfinished War caused a complete societal breakdown and brought humanity close to extinction...For one thing, the villagers are practically held prisoner within their settlement walls, because if you risk stepping into the vastly overgrown forests that surround them whilst the sun is out, the choker trees will crush you in their midst - that's if one of their deadly seeds doesn't land on you first and burrow into your skin. And that's not even to mention the shunned men . . .

If you fall into their hands, you'll never be seen again. Rumour has it that they'll skin you alive and eat what's left. But Koli and his village feel safe and protected due to one thing: The Ramparts, those key four people who defend the village using the special tech of the Old Times. These Ramparts are the chosen ones: the only ones for whom the technology has "woken", and the only ones who can wield the power of these weapons. And they are the elite of the village, living the life of privilege that their honoured status earns them. Koli is coming to the age where he - like all those his age - will take the test to see if he is destined to be a Rampart, a sacred protector of the village. But when Koli discovers a corruption in the testing ceremony, and at the heart of the whole village, he will fight back. But the consequences of his actions will be far greater than he could have imagined.
